

The Owner's Satisfaction

Adopted from Mark
12:1-12

Roger E. Bruner
26-Apr-1991

(1. A) man once plant- ed a vine- yard and
(2. Ev'- ry) year at the end of the harv- est, when the
(3. But the) ten- ants were self- ish and stub- born; they
(4. The) vine- yard own- er was pa- tient, but inbuilt a high wall all a- round; he leased it out to some ten- ants had mon- ey in hand, the own- er send round a balked at the small debt they owed till one year they beat up the sist- ed the debt must be paid. He sent one serv- ant af- ter an-ten- ants who paid rent when the harv- est was serv- ant to col- lect the fair share he was serv- ant and said that they'd no long- er oth- er. Each was bat- tered and beat- en or done, who paid rent when the harv- est was done. 2. Ev'- ry-due, to col- lect the fair share he was due. 3. But the pay, said said that they'd no long- er pay. 4. The killed, eachwas bat- tered and beat- en or killed. 5. When the

5. When the owner had no more servants, he sent his own dear son instead.
But the tenants murdered him also and thought the whole debt issue dead.
6. But some of the tenants were sorry for the way they'd mistreated the son.
When they begged the father's forgiveness, he told them their debt had been paid.
7. The day and hour are soon coming when the rest of the tenants will pay,
And the owner will have satisfaction: death to all who reject his son still.